

Learning Habits:	What they lead to:
Be respectful and empathetic	Politeness, collaboration, good manners, managing your emotions, communicating effectively, showing gratitude
Be problem solvers	Persevere, don't give up, be resilient , collaborate , be resourceful , ask questions , take risks, make links , be able to make mistakes
Be independent	Self discipline, manage your distractions , confidence, problem solve, try hard, self motivation, challenge yourself, be resourceful , struggle and persist
Be critical thinkers	Question , analyse, collaborate, be resourceful, noticing details, be able to infer things, communicate, reason, evaluate, reflect
Be creative and open minded	Thinking about doing things in different ways, seeing different perspectives, being resourceful, coming up with ideas, using your imagination, using stimulus, researching, feeling safe to make mistakes, being brave, bringing ideas together/synthesising
Be co operative	Team working, empathy, taking part and playing a part in what is going on all the time, showing interest, contributing, being self motivated, knowing and using your strengths, active listening, responding to others, having awareness of others
Be an effective communicator	Being able to share and explain clearly, awareness of purpose and audience, thinking ideas through, planning how to communicate, rehearsing, body language, empathy, awareness of formality (formal or informal, standard English or not English standard English)